

Tracy Wood was born and raised in Washington State. He attended Adventist schools as well as public school. He received his undergraduate education at Oregon Polytechnic Institute, Walla Walla University, and Union College in Lincoln, Nebraska. His graduate and postgraduate studies were completed at the Adventist Theological Seminary in Berrien Springs, Michigan.

Pastor Tracy has experience in sales, engineering, architecture, and construction management. He spent seven years serving as a Sabbath School teacher with Juniors, Earliteens, and Youth. He worked as a pastor in the Oregon Conference for six years and the conference youth department for 10 years. In 2015, he began serving at the North American Division in Youth & Young Adult Ministries.

Pastor Tracy is married to Angelina Cameron-Wood. They treasure spending time with their children and grandchildren. They enjoy outdoor exercise, hiking, flower gardening, backyard birding, riding their motorcycle, reading books together, and spending time with family and friends. They are passionate about spending time with Jesus and helping others get to know Him better!
